Data Source

Data has been taken from our Rota Management System (Fire Service Rota) to prepare the information contained within this document. This system allows our firefighters to record their availability and unavailability to attend incidents.

On-Call Availability

On-call firefighters need to be able to respond to a fire station within 5 minutes of an emergency call, and they are only confirmed as available when they can meet this criterion.

An on-call appliance is only deemed available when it has the required number of firefighters with the necessary skills to attend the incident.

To achieve 100% availability an on-call fire appliance must have sufficient number of firefighters with the necessary skill sets to be available to attend emergency calls 100% of the time. The data shows that this is not currently being achieved and the on-call model is not sustainable.

WFRS On-Call Station Availability

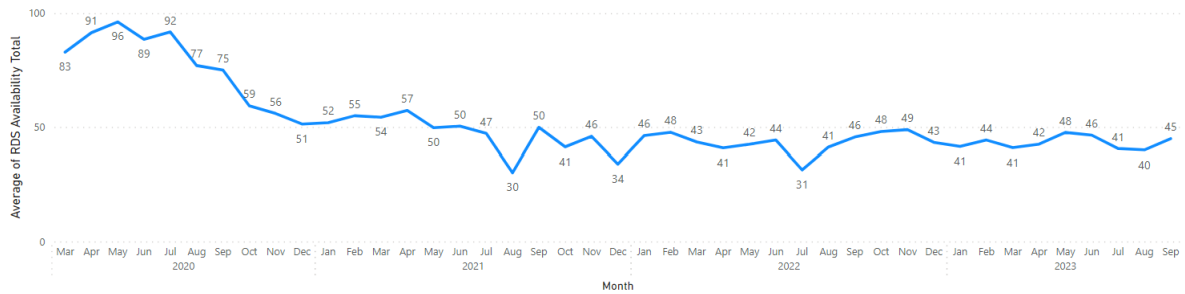

During the day, on-call availability may be supported by detachments. Detachments occur when a firefighter is moved from their usual place of work (fire station) to another place of work (fire station) to improve crewing levels.

The trend graphs below show average availability of on-call appliances over a four-year period, after these detachments are made.

The tables below show day and night availability, over a six-month period, before any detachments are made.
